DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Group I (claims 1-15) in the reply filed on 3/21/2005 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 7-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 7 recites the limitation "the edge sides". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Art Unit: 2826

5. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Comette ("Comette") USPN 3,887,783.

Comette discloses in figs. 1 and 2 a semiconductor wafer having a top side and a rear side, the semiconductor wafer comprising: semiconductor chips P1-P3 arranged in rows and columns on the wafer top side; strip-type separating regions being arranged between the semiconductor chips; and wherein the separating regions (unnumbered) have passage contacts in the direction of the rear side of the semiconductor wafer.

Regarding claims 2 and 3, Comette discloses passage contacts having perforations, wherein the perforations 11 have walls having a metal layer 13/21 applied thereto (as in claim 3).

Regarding claim 4, Comette discloses the walls also have an insulation layer 10 applied thereto.

Regarding claim 5, Comette discloses (col. 3, lines 21-37) the passage contacts have fusible solder material.

6. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Thomas ("Thomas") USPN 6,213,347.

Thomas discloses in figs. 7 and 8 a semiconductor wafer having a top side and a rear side, the semiconductor wafer comprising: semiconductor chips 70/82 arranged in rows and columns on the wafer top side; strip-type separating regions being arranged between the semiconductor chips; and wherein the separating regions have passage contacts in the direction of the rear side of the semiconductor wafer.

Art Unit: 2826

Regarding claims 2 and 3, Thomas discloses passage contacts having perforations, wherein the perforations (unnumbered) have walls having a metal layer 82b applied thereto (as in claim 3).

Regarding claim 4, Thomas discloses the walls also have an insulation layer 76 applied thereto.

Regarding claim 5, Thomas discloses the passage contacts have fusible solder material 82b.

7. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ingrashi et al. ("Ingrashi") US PG-Pub 2004/0169271.

Ingrashi discloses in figs. 1 and 2 a semiconductor wafer having a top side and a rear side, the semiconductor wafer comprising: semiconductor chips 12 arranged in rows and columns on the wafer top side; strip-type separating regions being arranged between the semiconductor chips; and wherein the separating regions have passage contacts in the direction of the rear side of the semiconductor wafer.

Regarding claims 2 and 3, Ingrashi discloses passage contacts having perforations, wherein the perforations 41 have walls having a metal layer 11 applied thereto (as in claim 3).

Regarding claim 4, Ingrashi discloses the walls also have an insulation layer 13 applied thereto.

Regarding claim 5, Ingrashi discloses the passage contacts have fusible solder material 15.

8. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Comette.

Art Unit: 2826

Comette discloses in figs. 1 and 2 a semiconductor chip with a top side, a rear side, and with edge sides, the semiconductor chip comprising: an integrated circuit on the top side; at least one edge side having edge contacts (unnumbered) wherein, the edge contacts extend from the top side in the direction of the rear side of the semiconductor chip; and wherein the edge contacts are connected to electrodes 22 of the integrated circuit via conductor tracks (col. 3, lines 21-37).

9. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ingrashi.

Ingrashi discloses in fig. 2 a semiconductor chip with a top side, a rear side, and with edge sides, the semiconductor chip comprising: an integrated circuit on the top side; at least one edge side having edge contacts (sides of region 11) wherein, the edge contacts extend from the top side in the direction of the rear side of the semiconductor chip; and wherein the edge contacts are connected to electrodes 11 (center region) of the integrated circuit via conductor tracks (connection under grooves 41).
